Dear Mr. Melchiors:

I am pleased to inform you that you attained a passing score on the first battery of tests (Phase I) for the Special Agent position. If you are applying under the Language Entry Program, you may be contacted to schedule the foreign language examination. The next phase of processing includes a structured interview and writing exercise (Phase II). Please note that there are thousands of applicants at this particular stage of processing, and only those candidates determined to be most competitive, based on standardized selection criteria and the investigative needs of the Bureau, are nominated for the limited number of Phase II testing vacancies.

Your qualifications and competitiveness in the Special Agent Selection System (SASS) will be consistently monitored, and you will be contacted in the event that you are selected for further processing. Under the current SASS, your Phase I test scores will remain on record indefinitely and you will not be required to retest.

I encourage you to keep your local FBI field office advised of any changes in your application. Your continued interest in the Special Agent position is appreciated.

Sincerely yours,

John G. Raucci
Assistant Director,
Human Resources Officer
Human Resources Division
